PLANE MAKES LANDING AT SEA

69 Aboard U.S.-Bound Flying Boat Reported Safe, Transferred to Ship.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 14—The control tower of Prestwick airport said a chartered Boeing flying boat had made a forced landing at sea 500 miles east of Newfoundland today and that the 69 persons aboard were being transferred to an international weather ship stationed on the Atlantic.

Most aboard were Britons. The pilot was an American, Capt. Charles Martin, 33, a former naval flier. A spokesman at the tower said none was injured.

Two Skymaster planes were reported flying over the scene, which was about 1,400 miles west of Eire.

Prestwick quoted a message from Martin as saying: "Alighted safely three miles west of position. No damage whatsoever."

The plane was operated by American International Airways, which frequently arranges charter flights.

Radios Message

The Prestwick control tower said Capt. Martin had radioed:

"Owing to strong winds, am forced to alight. Am making for weather ship NNMC."

The Brenard News Service, which reports from airports for British newspapers, said a later message told of the occupants being transferred to the weather ship.

However, in New York the Coast Guard reported that winds of gale force and swells 25 to 35 feet high prevented transfer of passengers by life raft to the ship.

A cutter radioed to Coast Guard headquarters here recommending that rescue aircraft en route to the flying boat, approximately 1,400 miles west of Shannon, Ireland, and 820 miles east of Argentia, Newfoundland, be recalled.

Seas Too Heavy

The Coast Guard rescue division said it was believed the seas were too heavy to attempt air rescue and that this was borne out by a report from the Norwegian liner Stavengerfjord, about 150 miles west of the weather ship, stating that there were "number seven seas," described as rough, with swell 25 to 35 feet high.

Brenard said the incomplete passenger list, lacking home addresses and in most cases complete names, had been obtaind from an official source. It included these Americans, the agency said:

Mrs. May Last, 61, a widow; Frederick Scheunstuhl, 40, a builder; Mr. Quinn, a chief officer, U. S. merchant navy; Johann Van Goeckingk, 39; Mr. Brown, American merchant navy; Mr. Harman; Mr. Currie; Mr. King; Mr. Rivera; Mr. Miller; Mr. Crenshaw; William Jernet, 44, and his wife, Catherine Charlotte, 37.

Shannon officials said many of the 62 passengers were persons emigrating to the United States or Canada. The ship took off at 3 p. m. GMT (10 a. m. EST) yesterday from Foynes, Shannon airport's flying boat port, for Gander, Newfoundland, the control authority said.

WOMAN IS ACCUSED IN DEATH OF CHILD

Nurse Released on Bond After Appearance in Court.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 14—A Kenton woman is free under $500 bond in connection with the death of Judy Chamberlain, 8-year-old Kenton school girl, killed when struck by a car a week ago while enroute to school.

Mrs. Grace Travers, 55, a nurse at Antonio hospital in Kenton, was arraigned in Mayor LeRoy Hoppe's court yesterday charged with leaving the scene of an accident. Her attorney entered a plea of not guilty. Her case will be heard at 1 p. m. Oct. 22.

Charges were filed by Kenton Police Chief Clarence Sheldon after Mrs. Travers had been questioned at police headquarters Sunday in the presence of a Toledo businessman, Harold Beaubeen who witnessed the accident. Beaubeen identified Mrs. Travers as the driver of the car that struck the girl.

Mrs. Travers who had been questioned last Tuesday afternoon in Bellefontaine but not held, repeated her statement given to authorities at the time. She said she thought she had struck a pasteboard box, stopped, looked back and seeing nothing unusual, had driven on.

Mrs. Cernius earns $8 a week.

CIO GIVES SUPPORT TO MARSHALL PLAN

By International News Service

Boston, Mass., Oct. 14—The CIO convention resolutions committee, overriding the left-wing minority, today approved U. S. economic aid to Europe and international inspection of atomic energy.

It criticized obstructionist use of the Big Five veto in the United Nations security council.

The expected floor fight on American foreign policy is not scheduled to occur until after Secretary of State George C. Marshall's address tomorrow afternoon.

But the invitation to Marshall, author of the plan denounced by the Soviet Union, was itself regarded as a slap at the minority.

This group applauded Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) yesterday when he called the Marshall plan "a foreign policy that brooks of war."

As a compromise, actual mention of the Marshall plan by name is omitted from the resolution committee's report.

GALES BUFFET ISLAND GROUP OFF CAROLINAS

Communication with Mainland Cut; No Fear Held for Residents.

By The Associated Press

HATTERAS, N. C., Oct. 14—Gales and high tides hit the North Carolina outer banks today and cut telephone communications with the mainland as a tropical hurricane passed 130 miles due east of Hatteras.

The Coast Guard said it had little fear however, for the safety of residents along the sparsely populated strand, as the 40 to 50 miles an hour winds lashing it were not unusual. The storm had caused millions of dollars of flood damage on the lower east coast of Florida.

The weather bureau said the storm was moving in a north by northeast direction with 80 mile winds near its center. The bureau said winds would increase along the Virginia coast and reach moderate gale force and cause rather high tide before the day ends.

The bureau also said the storm, moving about 15 miles an hour would probably continue out over the ocean because of a large high pressure area extending from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 14—Relief agencies stepped up their efforts to aid thousands of flood victims in southeast Florida today, as waters from the hurricane of Saturday and Sunday continued to rise.

The Red Cross assigned additional disaster relief workers to Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties as the tons of water dumped on the area by the latest storm made thousands of homes untenable.

An additional $1,250,000 was approved for relief and rehabilitation work. W. W. Jefferson, Red Cross southeastern area manager, said there was no indication that the flood waters would recede soon.

The Coast Guard planned an aerial survey of all the marooned areas between Fort Lauderdale and Homestead, including greater Miami. Planes were to drop message blocks so flood victims, stranded since Saturday, could signal for help.

Claude Lucas, 12, was drowned in a swollen canal near Kendall yesterday, the third victim of the storm. Two Marines were killed in Miami Sunday when a Red Cross evacuation truck crashed into a utility pole.

Red Cross officials estimated 750 homes in the greater West Palm beach area were flooded, and 1,405 in Broward county damaged. More than 5,000 Dade (Miami) county homes were surrounded by water, the Red Cross said.

Ohioan Admits Killing Wife Over Divorce Suit

By The Associated Press

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 14—Russell Barnes, 36, pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge today in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Mabel, 34, on the front porch of a neighbor's home last night, Police Chief Emery Gintz reported.

Barnes, who entered his plea when arraigned before Justice George Shonk, also signed a statement admitting that he shot his estranged wife "because she wouldn't drop her suit for divorce," Chief Gintz said. The statement was signed in the presence of Gintz and several Tuscarawas county officials, the police chief added.

Justice Shonk ordered Barnes bound over to the county grand jury and held without bond.

Gintz quoted Barnes as saying in the statement that he armed himself with a pistol and "intended to shoot Mabel and then kill myself."

Boy Scouts Stress Training That Makes Good Citizens

This is one of a series of articles dealing with the welfare and character building agencies which participate in the Marion Community Foundation drive opening next Monday. The articles explain the work and program of the agencies and their urgent need for support in the annual campaign.

* * *

Character building and citizenship training, with fun, physical fitness, and vocational guidance for good measure, is a capsule description of the program of the Harding Area of Boy Scouts of America.

The Harding Area has chosen as its theme for 1948 "The Scout Citizen at Work In His Home, In His Community, In His Nation, In His World."

A budget of $13,500 has been set up for minimum operations that will permit Scouting to continue its work and reach out to the more than 3,000 boys in the community who are potential members.

In the past year some 2,000 boys participated in the Harding Area program of Scouting; one of the chief factors of which is vocational training through work to earn coveted merit badges.

Among outstanding events of the year were a Scout circus in which approximately 1,000 Scouts and Cubs performed before about 2,500 spectators, annual summer camp attended by 321 Scouts from 28 troops, a "Council Camporee" participated in by 101 Scouts from 16 troops, a pilgrimage of 1,300 Scouts to the Harding Memorial, the planting of 10,000 trees as a "good turn" to future generations, and participation in all patriotic and civic parades.

Stress Moral Code

Scouts, through honest efforts to live up to the high ideals of their organization, are one means of coping with so-called "problem boys." Their moral code stresses a good turn daily, preparedness, and that a Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent.

Thousands of Marion men, many of them leaders in the community whose sons are now in Scouting, recall the moment in their boyhood when they solemnly repeated the Boy Scout oath, "On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout law, to help other people at all times, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight," and become full-fledged member of a worldwide organization.

Military leaders of World Wars I and II paid high tribute to the Boy Scout organization's early training which carried through, produced the highest type of men in uniform.

During the recent war years Marion's Boy Scout troops were active in every drive staged to further the war effort in which their services could be used.

Boy Scout leaders stress that expansion of the program depends on leadership. They feel that if the time should come that Marion could no longer support its Boy Scouts, delinquency cases would increase rapidly because large numbers of boys would be deprived of the character building and citizenship training gained in Scout troop activities.

Strong Character Needed

"Certainly it is more than ever apparent today that the future of America and the world depends upon strong character and strong leadership," Dr. Robert T. Gray of Prospect, president of the Harding Area Council, said recently. "America needs, more than ever, a good solid citizenry if we are to courageously and steadfastly hold to our principles and thereby steer the world to better days. Those of character, the leaders, must come from the youth of today. There is no other source."

This fall and winter will mark a greatly expanded program at Camp John A. Owens south of Marion and at Camp Michel in Crawford county, seven miles south of Bucyrus on the Little Sandusky river.

Heretofore, Camp Owens has been able to accommodate less than 40 boys for winter week-end camping, and the one building at Camp Michel was not conditioned for winter occupancy.

The Camp Michel building, located in a 40-acre, heavily wooded tract, is being made ready for the winter months and at Camp Owens three new buildings are being erected and one building is being converted for year-round camping.

The Boy Scout camping program offers boys the fun of outdoor sports and campfires, an excellent time for working on merit badges, and a chance to develop citizenship through the community life of the camp.

According to Boy Scout officials, winter camping has become even more popular with the

250 REPORT BACK AT GALION FACTORY

No Difficulty Encountered Today as Plant Reopens.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 14—Police and sheriff's department officials were on watch at the North Electric company main plant here at 6:30 a. m. today as the strikebound plant opened its doors for the second day in an attempt to resume production.

Company estimates indicate approximately one third of the workers were back on their jobs with no interference by striking employes. Personnel Manager Alan Ryon said 250 workers were in the plant today including about 40 office employes.

The UAW continued to picket the plant with the maximum number allowed under the injunction obtained last Friday by the company in Crawford county common pleas court. Six pickets were patrolling before each of the three company gates.

The five city policemen together with Sheriff Ralph Schreck and a deputy encountered no difficulty as employes entered and left the plant unmolested both yesterday and today.

The plant employs approximately 750 persons of which number 463 are on the production line. Referring to workers returning to their jobs, UAW international representative Edward Duck remarked "No one who can make switchboards has yet returned to work."

The company manufactures telephone switchboards and according to testimony of R. K. McBerty, vice president, given at the injunction hearing, is two years behind in filling its orders, many of which are for the government.

The UAW is engineering the strike for union recognition, called Aug. 20, and demanding representation as bargaining agent for employes in all three North company plants. Other plants are at Mt. Gilead and Kenton.

James Byrnes Writes Tomorrow

Starting tomorrow The Star will present one of the outstanding news features of our time. There will appear the first of a series of articles by James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state. In the first installment Mr. Byrnes tells how President Roosevelt persuaded him to attend the Yalta conference—the first of history-making meetings in which he took part. At all, he was a keen observer of the interplay of personalities and of the sub-surface currents which helped determine the shape of fateful decisions. His distinguished career in public life alone would give Mr. Byrnes' writings significance. But what charges them with extraordinary interest is the fact that many of his revelations are based on copious on-the-scene shorthand notes made by Mr. Byrnes himself. If you want to understand modern history, to step behind the curtain of wartime secrecy, be sure to read each one in this engrossing series of articles.

Mayor Announces Plan To Form Food Committee for City

Mayor Harry L. Dowler announced today that plans were underway for the organization of a "citizens' food committee."

The plans were started in accordance with a request received yesterday from Charles Luckman, chairman of the President's Citizens food committee.

The telegram cited the "grave emergency confronting the hungry people of Europe and the responsibility this places on us as a free people and the deluge of inquiries we have already received from individuals and organizations offering every cooperation requires the immediate establishment of a local citizens food committee."

Mayor Dowler stated that the organization would probably be completed within a week and the appointments announced.

Marion restaurants and hotels have cooperated to date with the four-point program announced by President Truman. When organized, the Marion food committee will bring special emphasis on the points: use no meat on Tuesday; use no poultry or eggs on Thursday; save a slice of bread every day and restaurants to serve bread and butter only on request.

UN DELEGATES WEIGH CONTINUOUS SESSION

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 14—U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles, whom the Russians have called a "war-monger," opened debate today on Secretary of State Marshall's plan to hold the 57 United Nations in session here the year around.

Without mentioning the 22 vetoes Russia has used to exert her will over majorities in the 11-nation security council, Dulles appealed for steps "to regain public confidence and prestige needed for successful survival" of the United Nations.

The American delegate advanced the opening arguments in the regular assembly's 57-nation political committee.

He said there was "widespread disillusionment" over the progress of the UN and that Marshall's proposal for a year-round "little assembly" was designed to provide a solution.

POLICE SEEK WOMAN IN MINISTER'S DEATH

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14—A description of a "fairly stout" woman and the fragment of a revolver butt were listed by Baltimore county police today as the "only two" clues to the tourist cabin murder of Rev. Charles Raymond Vaughn, minister, Pataskala, O., Boy-Land club leader and author.

Rev. Vaughn's nude body was found Sunday night in a tourist cabin near Halethorpe, on the outskirts of Baltimore.

The revolver butt fragment was on the bed beside the body. The face, head and shoulders had been beaten in with a blunt instrument. Police said they believe a revolver—used as a club—was the weapon.

Lt. Earl Smith of the county police said a waitress of a Baltimore-Washington boulevard restaurant reported serving the 54-year-old Ohioan and the stout woman shortly after he registered at the tourist camp under his pen-name C. Pat McGuire, Saturday night.

This description of the woman was broadcast over a 17-state police teletype system, between

25TH ANNUAL MEETING HELD

Harding Memorial Heads Re-elected; Reports on Management, Registrations Given.

Reports of the year's activities were given and future plans tentatively discussed at the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Harding Memorial association and the board of trustees held yesterday at Hotel Harding.

Following the meeting of the association the board of trustees organized by reelecting former president Herbert Hoover honorary president and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer president. Ray R. King was reelected first vice president and treasurer and Paul D. Michel, second vice president, secretary and assistant treasurer. Dr. Warren C. Sawyer was elected third vice president.

New Member Chosen

Donald Williamson was elected to membership in the association to fill the vacancy made by the death of Henry Ford. Dr. Sawyer announced in the board meeting that he would appoint his executive committee in the near future. This committee, he stated, will be enlarged, in order to adequately handle the increasing business of the organization.

Due to illness, J. Fred Dombaugh, director at the Harding home for the last 18 years, was unable to present his report. Interest in the Harding Home and Museum showed an appreciable increase during the last year, reports on the number of visits showed. Ray R. King, as chairman of the Memorial and grounds committee, called on Harold D. Augenstein, who is in charge of the memorial grounds, to give a resume of the year's activities. These included the cabling of trees around the edifice, replacement of walks, the removal of 14 trees and the purchasing of equipment for use in caring for the grounds. The cabling of trees was necessitated by the growth of the trees, some of which were destroyed by high winds.

Registrations Listed

The registration booth, placed at the memorial through the courtesy of the State Highway department, has minimized defacing of the memorial, Mr. Augenstein reported.

Registrations show that 20,000 persons have visited the memorial since February last year, C. D. Schaffner, chairman of the Harding Home committee, called attention to previous reports showing that the business was being carried on in a satisfactory manner and called attention to some needed building improvements and repairs.

Following the reports the association voiced an unanimous vote of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Dombaugh and to Mr. Augenstein for their interest and work at the Harding Home and Memorial respectively. Dr. Sawyer announced

LUCKMAN SETS MONTHLY GOAL

Surplus of 3,500,000 Bushels Suggested as Quota for Industry.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Chairman Charles Luckman of the Citizens food committee planned to pledge the nation's bakery industry today to wheat savings of 3,500,000 bushels a month for hungry Europe.

Meanwhile he called the 25 committee members together to report the closing of two other deals which he considers of major importance in the drive to conserve 100,000,000 bushels of grain this winter. They were:

▶A 60-day shutdown by whisky distillers starting at midnight, Oct. 25, agreed to by virtually the entire industry.

▶A pledge of "complete support" from the restaurant industry's national advisory committee, including cooperation in the spottily-observed meatless Tuesdays and eggless and poultryless Thursdays. The industry added a 17-point savings plan of its own.

Both agreements were reached last night, on the eve of the country's second "meatless Tuesday."

Today a committee spokesman said baking company representatives would seek final terms with Luckman on their curtailment plan.

To Halt Consignment

Luckman told reporters the baking industry is "definitely committed" to halt the practice of consignment selling—that is, sending stores more bread than they normally dispose of and then picking up the stale leftover loaves next day.

Many persons have suggested that bakeries offer a half-size loaf at a correspondingly lower price, a committee official disclosed. It has been urged that such a loaf, shortened but not reduced in size of slice, would be welcomed by single persons or couples who find that the ordinary loaf dries out or moulds before it is used up.

These other developments kept the capital's attention riveted to Europe's economic and political problems:

1. France won U. S. permission to spend about $83,000,000 of her remaining $163,000,000 export-import bank credit on emergency purchases of coal and other raw materials. France has reported she is near the bottom of her dollar supply.

2. President Truman asked the 48 governors to appoint state committees, or individuals, to work with the citizens food committee and organize statewide activity in support of "this war on hunger."

The restaurant industry advisory committee issued a statement promising to "cooperate on this worthwhile program" and volunteering to publicize it by posters, notices clipped on menus and other means.

It was uncertain how binding the pledge would be regarded by the nation's restaurant and lunch-counter operators. In many cities compliance has been only partial, and some local and state associations have protested that other conservation steps would be more effective than the diet-days asked by Luckman.

Other Suggestions

A full array of such practices was adopted by the industry committee in its 17-point saving plan. It included:

The serving of "fair but not excessive portions."

Serving bread and butter only on request.

Limiting the number of crackers served with soup and cheese.

Halting the custom of trimming toast or sandwich crusts.

Eliminating the use of scarce, high-priced foods, and using surplus items to the "greatest extent."

Serving oatmeal bread and cakes or other substitutes, instead of wheat products.

Limiting butter to one pat per meal.

Encouraging boiled dressings instead of oil dressings.

OHIO'S GAS INCREASE FALLS BELOW HOPES

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 14—Ohio will not get as large an increase in the supply of natural gas from the big Texas pipeline this winter as expected, it appeared yesterday after federal permission was granted for the line to serve new customers in Pennsylvania.

The partial setback to the request of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co of Columbus and the East Ohio Gas Co. of Cleveland came in a decision of the federal power commission which authorized the Texas Eastern Transmission Corp to operate the big pipeline permanently.

Lambert McAllister, an FPC attorney, said the Ohio companies would get a proportionate increase over the capacity of the big pipeline increased to 265 million cubic feet by Nov 1 340 million feet by Dec 1 and to 435 million feet by Aug 1 1948

Both Ohio Fuel and East Ohio officials protested the opening of the new market for natural gas shipped through the big pipeline, They argued that present customers of Texas Eastern can use the 110 million cubic feet now carried and all the increase.

Parent company of the Ohio distributors had contracts with Texas Eastern which would have enabled greater increases to Ohio concerns in the daily supply from the big pipeline than the FPC order permits.

HIGH COURT PASSES OVER "FEUD" CASE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The supreme court yesterday refused to hear a case which held the possibility of an early showdown in the feud between Justices Robert H. Jackson and Hugo Black.

Jackson in his sensational statement from Nuernberg, Germany, in June, 1946, warned Black he should never again take part in a case filed by Black's former law partner. Black did not reply publicly to Jackson.

Yesterday the court refused to consider a new case filed by Black's one-time partner, Crampton Harris, of Birmingham, Ala.

If the tribunal had agreed to hear the case, Black would have been faced with these alternatives:

1. To eliminate himself from the case during the argument and on the decision, or,

2. To remain on the bench during the argument and take part in the decision, in defiance of Jackson's warning that he would speak out loud and fierce against such practice.

Chances are that Jackson would let the incident pass if, in event the second alternative were chosen the court decided against Harris's arguments and Black voted against his former partner. However a victory for Harris with Black's vote in favor of Harris's case would almost certainly bring a new and sharper denunciation from Jackson.

1949 OLDS MAY USE NEW TYPE OF ENGINE

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 14—There is better than an even chance the 1949 Oldsmobile will have a V-8 type of the Kettering high compression engine.

With most of the 1948 models all but finalized insofar as engineering details are concerned the industry's engineers already are at work on the models to follow. It has been fairly well understood that most of the early 1948 cars will differ from current models mainly in appearance, with outstanding engineering changes being held for the 1949 cars.

According to present planning most of these latter models will be brought out late next year.

Details of new models always are closely guarded secrets—insofar as they can be guarded among thousands of individuals figuring on the implementing of engineering changes and the production of equipment to make them. Thus Oldsmobile has made no disclosure of any new model details—1948 or 1949.

It may be said, however, that the new engine designed by Charles F. Kettering, engineering consultant of General Motors Corp is under serious consideration for incorporation in the 1949

U.S. URGES DRAWING OF PALESTINE PLAN

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 14—The United States took the lead today in urging the United Nations assembly's Palestine committee to work immediately on drafting a specific plan for future government of the Holy Land.

Earlier the United States joined Russia in a resolution calling for the 57-nation committee to draft a plan on the proposed partition of Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish countries.

As a supplement to this, the United States submitted another resolution calling upon the committee to create a subcommittee to work out details of a plan for provisional government of Palestine and report back to the 57-nation assembly by Nov. 3.

The Swedish-American resolution proposed that the basis for the future government of the Holy Land should be the unanimous recommendations and majority report of the 11-member UN special committee on Palestine (UNSCOP) calling for partition.

The joint Swedish-American and American resolutions were submitted to Secretary General Trygve Lie last night for distribution to the other members of the Palestine committee.

FIRE HITS OHIO HOTEL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—A fire of undetermined origin burned through the third floor and roof of the Knickerbocker hotel at 8308 Euclid ave. last night causing damage estimated by Battalion Chief John P. O'Brien at $2,500. Thirty-five residents in 22 rooms of the hotel were made homeless by the blaze.

24 PER CENT DROP IN OHIO CORN SEEN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14—Ohio farmers knew the worst today about their corn crop: it probably will be 24 per cent below last year and 14 per cent below normal.

Killing frost late last month and during early days of October caused that pessimistic estimate yesterday by Glenn S. Ray, federal-state crop reporting service statistician.

Ray estimated the 1947 crop in Ohio at 135,440,000 bushels, compared to 178,409,000 bushels a year ago.

Western and northern Ohio areas, which produce more than half of the state's corn, were hardest hit by the early frosts, Ray said.

"Less than two-thirds was dented and mature when growth was stopped," he said. "In the central district, where approximately one-fifth of Ohio's corn acreage is found this year, 74 per cent was mature and dented at the time of the killing frost, and 13 per cent was in the hard-dough stage."

He said only 72 per cent of Ohio's corn was mature enough Oct. 1 to be safe from frost, while 14 per cent was in the hard-dough stage and 14 per cent in soft-dough stage.

Three weeks of dry weather, he said, helped farmers recoup some of the losses in corn and soybeans they anticipated from the early killing frosts.

GRAIN BLOCKED IN ARGENTINA

Sketchy South American Port Facilities Stymie Effort To Aid Europe.

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 14 — Argentine farmers have grain for hungry Europe, but getting it to port and loaded on ships will be the bottleneck.

The U. S. Army, faced with hunger in the occupied zones, has sent a mission here to discuss how much grain is available, how much can be shipped and how much it will cost. Army headquarters in Europe said they needed 1,000,000 tons of wheat and 500,000 tons of corn.

Grain trade circles estimate there is enough surplus grain inland to fill the Army's needs. The railroads say that bringing 1,500,000 tons to port in 90 days "is not impossible." But shipping men doubt Argentine ports could load the additional 70 ships a month necessary to move it.

A roundup of estimates indicates that a milllion tons is about the maximum which could be shipped in 90 days from the signing of any contract.

Grain men say they aren't sure how much wheat and corn are still on the farms or in inland elevators. This year's wheat crop of around 6,000,000 bushels was one of the largest on record. Roughly 2,290,000 tons has been shipped and Argentina's 16,000,000 inhabitants will eat a lot of what is left. The carryover from last year's small crop is an unknown factor, but the best opinion is that there is still 1,000,000 tons of wheat available and 500,000 tons of corn. Some of the corn may be in bad condition.

Movement of grain from farm storage to railroad stations depends on trucks. Last year, during a similar emergency, the United States sent 500 trucks here. Since then Argentina has bought thousands more from the United States and Canada. Gasoline to keep them moving is something else again. Argentina is suffering a gasoline shortage.

Dancer's Murder Trial Resumed at Havana

By International News Service

HAVANA, Oct. 14 — Patricia Schmidt, nervous and admittedly frightened by prospect of a possible 30-year sentence, will undergo grilling in Audencia court today to determine who loaded the gun with which she killed John L. Mee.

The dark-haired Toledo nightclub dancer, no longer as confident of acquittal as she was before she went to trial last Wednesday, will return to the stand to resume her account of how and why she killed the Chicago lawyer aboard his yacht last April 1.

Loading of the gun is an important feature of the defense case.

The 22-year-old entertainer has testified she snuffed out her strange romance with Mee by firing a bullet into his neck because he threatened to kill her during a quarrel. She contends she did not remember how the bullets got into the 22-calibre target gun.

BUS WAGE OFFER MADE

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Oct. 14—AFL union bus drivers will reject a seven-cent-an-hour wage increase offer by Canton City Lines, Inc., when the proposal is presented to a membership meeting next Tuesday, union President Max Phillips predicted today. The company offer was made last night to union negotiators who are asking 40-cent hourly boosts in a new contract to replace one which expires tomorrow midnight, Phillips reported.

3 U. S. Seamen Rejoice Over Rescue in Pacific

By The Associated Press

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 14—Three American seamen rescued yesterday after 19 days adrift in the mid-Pacific aboard a powerless mine-sweeper, jubilantly messaged their wives today "we expect to be home for Christmas."

The three seamen—W. B. Hopkins of Washington, D. C., H. W. Crosby of Downers Grove, Ill., and L. E. Meets of Johns Island, S. C.—said they were still willing to continue to Manila. They will stay with their rescue vessel—navy patrol craft 221—until the commercial tug Mamo of Honolulu reaches them 400 miles northeast of Palmyra atoll Wednesday or Thursday.

The trio remained with four lashed-together war surplus sweepers being towed from Charleston, S. C., to Manila when their tug left to refuel at Palmyra. Two of the 85-foot long craft sank in a storm. The remaining two drifted 30 miles apart. The three seamen were aboard the lead sweeper.

Individual Unionists May Use NLRB, Counsel Rules

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Robert N. Denham, chief prosecutor of the Taft-Hartley act, conceded today that the law permits individual union members to use its privileges even if the union's officers refuse to swear they are not Communists.

The situation came to light in connection with a report by the national labor relations board showing that during the first six weeks of the new law 90 per cent of the unfair labor practice charges against employers were filed by individuals.

"We know that a number of those cases were filed by individuals whose union leaders had failed to file the non-Communist affidavits," said Denham, who is NLRB general counsel. "But there's nothing in the law to prevent an individual from bringing such a charge."

The law requires that a union's officers must sign the affidavits before the union itself can bring complaints against employers or, in fact, use the NLRB's facilities at all.

A summary of NLRB cases under the Taft-Hartley act up to Oct. 1 shows individuals filed 395 charges of unfair labor practices and unions only 30.

Marion Man Given Parole from Prison

A Marion man, Herbert Schneider, 55, is one of more than 30 inmates of the Ohio penitentiary granted paroles by the state pardon and parole commission today, an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus states. The paroles are effective Nov. 20.

Schneider entered the penitentiary in May, 1939, to serve a sentence of five to 30 years for burglary of an inhabited dwelling.

Triple Charges Drawn Against Findlay Gunman

By The Associated Press

FINDLAY, O., Oct. 14 — Arraignment on charges of assault, kidnaping and carrying concealed weapons today faced 27-year-old Leonard Johnson, who figured in the one-hour siege of the Trinity Episcopal church last week.

Johnson, accused of holding 34-year-old Rev. John E. Knox, the church's naval chaplain pastor, hostage in a spectacular effort to avoid police questioning, will be brought into mayor's court today on four charges, including two of assault, Police Chief Leo M. Larkins said.

Johnson was shot and captured only after he was enticed into the main room of the church.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

BOSTON

The main job of the CIO convention here for the rest of the week will be passing resolutions.

In most cases they won't amount to much more than this: They give the CIO a chance to go on record for something or against it.

For example:

There's a resolution on foreign affairs. It's pretty mild. It says something like this:

"We need peace. The nations of the world should live in peace. So the nations of the world should try for peace."

James Marlow

But here's an example of where the CIO can do something. There's a resolution condemning the new Taft-Hartley labor law.

And, in its resolution, the CIO pledges to fight the act where, when, and how it can.

Will Attempt Action

Since this resolution is stating a CIO policy, the CIO unions will work to try to carry it out.

But here's another which seems pretty sure to result in nothing:

This is a resolution suggesting that congress be called back into special session to bring back price controls to cut down the cost of living.

Since there is no sign of any wide feeling in congress to do anything of the kind, probably nothing like that will be done.

But, at least, the resolution gets the CIO on record as saying prices are too high and something should be done about them.

In all, 36 resolutions have been whipped into shape for the convention to vote on. Here's an explanation of how they got that way:

This CIO convention is a meeting of delegates from the 41 unions, representing 6,000,000 workers, which make up the CIO.

600 Delegates Present

There are about 600 delegates here, and most of them are officers in the 41 unions they represent.

Most conventions pass resolutions. The CIO meeting is no exception in the way it handles its resolutions.

In the first place, it would be impossible in a week's time to try to put resolutions together in language satisfactory to the majority of the delegates.

So this year, as in previous years, top officers of the unions met here a week before the convention started.

Special committees were set up to put into shape resolutions upon a number of subjects in which the CIO is interested.

Some of the committee work means compromising to avoid fights later on the convention floor or even splits in the CIO.

Examples Cited

For example:

Some of the CIO unions' officers are Communists, but most aren't. Suppose the committee drawing up a resolution on foreign affairs did one of these things:

1. Bitterly condemned Russia. (The CIO Communists probably would fight this on the convention floor and maybe walk out.)

2. Sharply criticised the way the United States handles foreign affairs.

(This would be sure to bring the roof down in the convention where the great majority of delegates are not Communists. They'd look on that kind of resolution as pro-Russian.)

Unless some changes are made on the convention floor, the resolutions that come out of the committee will be passed.

CIO President Philip Murray wants to keep peace in the CIO. So, it seems, do most of the CIO officers.

The resolutions which have come out of the committees are not the kind to cause much quarreling in the convention, if any.

Deafness

The person who losses his hearing wholly or in part has a real problem to face.

It will do him no good to build up a feeling of resentment and regret. Instead, he must face the facts courageously. Then, with sympathetic help and advice from his doctor he can set about making the needed adjustments which will lead a satisfactory life.

During the war thousands of men were cared for by the army and navy. As a result of this experience, Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, Surgeon General of the United States Navy, has outlined a program for the handling of deaf persons.

In each case of deafness he recommends tests of the hearing to determine the extent of the condition as well as the results obtained by previous treatment.

In general, there are three types of deafness. The first, known as chronic progressive deafness seems to run in families. The ear drum, in such cases, appears to be normal, but as time passes, the deafness gradually becomes more severe. Its exact cause has not been determined.

The second type is known as nerve deafness. It may develop from a single violent shock, such as heavy gunfire, or may be the result of a cumulative effect of repeated exposures to loud noises.

In this disorder, within a year or two the deafness may become so severe as to interfere with usual activities. Common symptoms in the condition include ringing in the ear or head noises, headache and dizziness.

Inflammation of the eustachian tube, which leads from the throat to the middle ear, or inflammation in the mastoid, which is behind the ear, may also be responsible for nerve deafness.

In some cases, there may be overgrowth of the lymphoid tissues around the eustachian tube. This condition may be relieved by radium treatments.

The third type of deafness is due to chronic or long continued inflammation of the middle ear, known as otitis media.

There is also a condition known as otosclerosis which produces deafness, due to an overgrowth of the ear's bony tissues. This bony overgrowth interferes with the normal movement of the little bones in ear that transmit sound waves. An operation known as the fenestration will restore normal or near-normal hearing in about two-thirds of the cases of otoscelerosis.

Even if no method is available for overcoming the deafness, no matter what causes it, there are still a number of things that may be done to rehabilitate the deafened person.

The patient must first of all be told quite frankly that nothing more can be done to correct his deafness, not left to follow false hopes which will forever elude him. Next he must be impressed with the fact that since he cannot get rid of his handicap, he must learn to live with it in the best possible way.

To do this, he must make up his mind to use whatever hearing he has left to the fullest extent and to employ the best type of hearing aid to augment it. During the past few years hearing aids have been greatly improved. The deafened person who uses one can usually obtain a great deal of satisfaction from it, provided he thoroughly understands its use, care and limitations.

Where a hearing aid will not provide for all his needs, he can be trained in lip reading, a thing which is particularly useful in nerve deafness. Above all, the patient must be encouraged and convinced that if he makes the right sort of effort, he will be rewarded by the ability to lead a useful and satisfactory life in spite of his handicap.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. R.: For the past few years, I have been suffering from pain in my right eye, in the gums on the right side of my mouth, and in the right side of my face in general. What do you think causes it?

Answer: It may be that you have what is known as trifacial neuralgia. The exact cause of the condition is not definitely known, but possibly, it is due to some inflammation along the course of a nerve. The pain might be due to an infected tooth. You are in need of a careful examination by your doctor.

Bucyrus Dealers Fear Winter Coal Shortage

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 14 — Already far behind in orders and with little coal arriving, Bucyrus coal dealers today expressed fear that the city faces an unusual coal shortage during the winter months.

One dealer has orders for 800 tons which he says he can hardly fill; another reports half of his bins empty. Several have not received shipments that were due last July.

Heavy increases in exports and a shortening of miners' working hours are given by local dealers as the reason for the shortage.

Autumn Dividend

THE weather of the last several days has been a dividend accumulated on summer's principal. Clear skies and warm days that are summer's by rights have continued wonderfully far into autumn, making this season all the poet says it is when he puts on his rose-colored glasses and thumbs his thesaurus for fancy adjectives.

These are the days when the withering leaf is poised vertiginously for the first rain-laden blast to send it skittering. The sunlight takes on a softer hue and in the country the late afternoon breeze has a hint of chill.

From this home in the fence corner, the field mouse strays fat among the cornstalks. Wisps of fog lay late in the hollows in the morning. In many parts of rural Ohio, deer are out in force, little knowing that, come December, several Ohio counties will have open season on them.

People who know their way around cider mills do very well for themselves these days in the potables department. From kitchens comes the aroma of pumpkin pie, a delicacy which, when properly made, has been known to make a sensitive set of nostrils quiver at a distance of a quarter mile.

Yes, this is a summer dividend. There's much to be said for autumn when it inherits days like those we've been having.

Between Two Doctrines

CHILE now finds itself perched in the no-man's land between the United States and Russia. Perhaps it should be called the space between two doctrines—the Monroe and the Truman.

Chile's expulsion of two Yugoslav diplomats accused of fomenting Kremlin mischief has brought about severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries. But more important, it has brought about a blast from Belgrade, leaving little room for doubt that the Tito regime is speaking in the abusive jargon of the comintern critics of United States policy. Chile is accused, through Yugoslav spokesmen, of being under American domination. It is pointed out in the Belgrade blast that Yugoslavia is under "slanderous" attack by the same powers accused of being friendly to Chile; i.e., the United States.

In other words, dear readers, don't look now, but the tracks of the bear that walks like an agent of the comintern have just shown up again in the new world.

Who Says It's A Comintern?

THE Russian newspaper Pravda has evidenced some annoyance at the manner in which the rest of the world has played up reports of the 1947 model comintern. It isn't a comintern at all, Pravda explains, but more of a "cominform" designed as a voluntary association of autonomous Communist parties for the exchange of information. "To return at present to the comintern would mean going backward, not forward," says Pravda.

Russia is eager to emphasize that in the new Communist world front it is just one of the boys and not the boss. Thus the headquarters will be at Belgrade instead of Moscow. Thus Pravda and other Communist mouthpieces will sedulously cultivate the belief that Russia is not the guiding force.

This is the line Russian communism must take in its effort to win more support in discontented lands which have no warmer welcome for Communist interlopers than for any other foreigners. A French red, for instance, is a Frenchman first and a Communist second, except for the few party leaders who have been indoctrinated at Moscow.

This new Russian line may take in some of the starry-eyed commissars in Communist sub-capitals but it will take more than assurances from Pravda to convince the world at large. When Pravda puts out an interpretive story it's usually to throw up a smoke-screen for Communist shenanigans.

Newburyport Revisited

IT HAS been six months since Newburyport, Mass., was in the news with its plan to reduce prices 10 percent all along the line from manufacturer to consumer. Last week the New York Herald Tribune sent a reporter up there to see how the town was faring. The report wasn't good. Butter's 79 cents a pound, sirloin steak 85 cents. Other items are up proportionately.

Newburyport was the scene of an experiment noble in motive, but one based on moral suasion, like the present eat-less, waste-less program. But at least it was worth a try, for it was inherently simple and free of complexities not readily apparent.

The food-saving program, as it has gone to date, is something else again. First there was Agriculture Secretary Anderson's ill-timed statement. And now the packers, the brewers, the distillers, the restaurant operators, the housewives are putting in their two cents' worth. New complications are coming to light every day. Moral suasion is in a fair way to get its lumps again.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Strange Policies of Our Government.

THE most astonishing fact of our national existence is the contradiction between our necessities and the policy of government. For instance, facing the deterioration of our relations with Soviet Russia, the airplane manufacturing industries were permitted to deteriorate. Yet, military experts speak of the next war as primarily in the air. With air bases all over the world, diplomacy made no effort to save them for American use.

Facing the need for improved and increased transportation facilities, agencies of government prevented the railroads from setting up funds during profitable years to maintain efficiencies in lean years and refused to permit the railroads to earn not profits but only their way in the post-war general falling off of business. Wages were increased without regard to earnings as though it were normal for the railroads to be in the red. The processes for increasing rates to meet increased costs are so slow as to be of little value in arresting losses.

Tremendous Hike in Costs

The costs of operating class I railroads—that is, the main lines of the country — have been increased approximately $3,018,000,000 a year as of Sept. 2, 1947, over operating costs for 1939. And obviously in a rising cost market, the costs are bound to increase further. Had the treasury permitted the railroads to accumulate reserves to meet these necessities, there would be fewer lines in the red; fewer whose roadbeds ride like corrugated washboards; fewer whose equipment ought to be in the junk shop.

Just a Minute

By JACK TARVER

It Pays To Advertise

The postoffice department is sponsoring a nationwide campaign to encourage letter-writing.

After all, they've got to do something to enliven the lull between the fall catalogs and the Christmas rush.

Elimination of credit controls has increased postal patronage considerably . . . but that is confined largely to the first of the month.

The truth of the matter is, of course, the postoffice has been pretty slow to adopt new methods aimed at attracting more business. For instance, it has never done anything about improving the flavor of its mucilage.

Still, with this new emphasis on salesmanship, it wouldn't surprise me a bit to see postmen making a door-to-door canvass, calling attention to an end-of-the-month special on CODs.

Yes sir, the way the postoffice department is going out for business, you'd think it had competition.

In fact, come to think of it, soon we may see a new slogan on the nation's mail boxes: "Don't Telegraph—WRITE!"

It is one thing to advertise modernization, it is quite another to have the money with which to do it. But during the war, a myopic treasury kept the railroads from pursuing prudent business practices, with the result that they have to meet rehabilitation mostly through current earnings which are actually inadequate for current operations. Why the treasury pursued so foolhardy a policy is no more difficult to understand than much else the treasury has done during the past decade. Were this country forced by any circumstance into a war, its main transportation agency, the railroad, which should be absolutely shipshape by now, might prove dangerously inadequate.

Important Point

In a statement before the interstate commerce commission, Walter S. Franklin, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, pointed to a fact which is tremendously important in our present situation:

"In addition to the deferred maintenance that has accumulated through the war period, attention should be called to the fact that the eastern roads are not now in a position to meet a national emergency in the way they did at the outbreak of World War II. As an example, the Pennsylvania railroad, with deferred maintenance of over $100 million in track, structure and equipment and inadequate earnings for two years or more, could not spend, in addition to its present commitments, say 200 million dollars as it did during the last war to properly provide for the needed facilities of all kinds."

Ups and Downs

The railroads face higher wages, higher costs for materials, decreasing passenger revenues as the private automobile returns to service. They have been granted some rate increases which proved inadequate as all other costs continue to rise. The difficulty is that so long a time-lag occurs between rising costs and rate increases that the railroads lose money in between. It is true that many industries insist that railroad rates be low while their own prices are constantly rising. It is also true that the farmer, who has done astonishingly well in the current inflation, wants rates down. From the standpoint of the national interest, it is not a question as to what anyone wants. It is a question as to how the railroads will best serve the national defense.

The basic problem is that the railroads shall have enough money to get back into shape after the terrific pounding they took during the war years when they performed a service unequalled in this country and unparalleled anywhere. Without that service, allied logistics during the war could not have been carried to fruition; without that service, we cannot fight another war.

These are only two examples of the contradiction between national necessity and government policy which imperil our defenses should war occur. There are many such examples to which I shall call attention from time to time.

The Bidault Request

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—When French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault visited Washington some days ago, he expressed a curious optimism. He acknowledged that the results will be disastrous if France fails to get some dollar aid within the next few weeks. Yet, after conferences with President Harry S. Truman and Under Secretary of State Robert Lovett, he remarked to the press that he felt "confident and encouraged." The source of this optimism has been puzzling observers here ever since.

The fact is that Bidault repeated in Washington a request which had already been made in Paris, where French officials have approached Under Secretary of State Will Clayton and Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder. Bidault's request was sympathetically received, although no commitments were made. Bidault and his government have asked that the names and balances of French citizens with dollar holdings in the United States be made known to the French government.

May Be the Key

This French request has served to focus attention on a curious situation. American technicians who have been studying the matter are not yet ready to shout "Eureka." But the more daring are inclined to believe that this situation may hold the key to a way out of the terrible impasse on the timing of foreign aid which confronts the administration. For the American government either holds or controls sums running into billions of dollars which were or still are the property of Europeans. And what more logical than to use this European money to save Europe?

The money falls into three categories. First, there is cash seized from enemy aliens. This sum is held by the alien property custodian, and amounts to about $125,000,000. Next there are assets not in the form of cash, such as the General Aniline and Film Corporation, also seized as enemy property and held by the alien property custodian. No one knows how much this sort of property might bring, but there are guesses that it might be worth as much as half a billion dollars.

"Blocked" Money

The property in these two categories is actually owned by the United States. That in the third category is not. It consists of the assets of foreign nationals. These assets were blocked during the war. The great majority of the foreigners whose dollar holdings were thus frozen have not asked for their release. This is largely because the dollars would then be exchanged by the governments for comparatively worthless European currency, and in these days a European prefers frozen dollars to liquid francs or lira. No one in Washington seems to know just how much such blocked European money there is in the United States, but there are probably inflated estimates that it amounts to more than three billion dollars. Thus it is not unnatural that these blocked balances, controlled by the United States treasury, have attracted the interest of M. Bidault and his colleagues, as well as the officials of other European governments.

Inevitably, each of these three categories of European money has its own special legal bug, as a potential source of immediate aid to western Europe. First, although the $125,000,000 of seized cash is owned by the government, there will certainly be legal claims against it. Second, there is now a case before the supreme court, brought by Swiss interests, as to whether the seized non-cash assets can be used before the determination of each case on its merits—which would take years.

Problem for Snyder

Finally, the biggest legal bug concerns the frozen holdings of foreign nationals. For if the timid Snyder were to comply with the French request, he would almost certainly soon have a number of law suits on his hands. The banks in which the balances were held would claim, with some justice, that the government had illegally ruptured the confidential relationship between American banks and their depositors.

In these circumstances, a bold step is receiving serious consideration here. It has been proposed that the frozen balances be seized in entirety, and turned over to the alien property custodian as United States property. It is believed that the legal authority for this action exists. A kitty, perhaps of several billion dollars, would thus be created. The President is authorized to use such money "in the national interest." Under the presidential authority a part of this kitty could thus be used for the essential immediate aid which France and Italy must have, if their economies are not to explode, well before congress can reasonably be expected to act.

Such a step would be daring. It would certainly cause trouble, and trouble is something which certain administration officials seem determined to avoid, quite literally at any cost. Certain banks, in self-protection, would sue to enjoin the government from acting. Europeans whose toes had been stepped on would howl blue murder. All sorts of unpleasant risks would have to be taken. Yet far greater risks were taken, when, for example, the destroyer deal was pushed through, and the need now is at least as great as it was then. Moreover it would certainly strike most Americans as plain common sense that dollar-rich Europeans, however reluctantly, should shoulder part of the initial burden of European reconstruction.

Taft, Stassen and Eisenhower

By Raymond Moley

Rumors of Deal Have Little Basis in Fact.

IT was apparently so strange a sight—to see two Republican candidates meeting amicably and discussing issues from the same platform—that a rumor immediately spread that Senator Taft and Harold Stassen had made a deal at Des Moines. But a check with people in Des Moines and St. Paul reveals little to substantiate the rumor.

The facts seem to be as follows:

The two prospective candidates joined in promoting the common cause of the Republican party. Their views on public questions differ in degree, but not in substance. Stassen is generally regarded as the most "liberal" of the Republican aspirants, but what is not generally recognized is that Taft's views on such domestic policies as housing, health and labor are far from following the pattern of the Coolidge-Hoover era. Hence, the two suggest the idea of a joint ticket.

Taft and Stassen, moreover, regard Dewey as a major threat to their ambitions. The news from Des Moines makes it clear that both men will fight Dewey to the end. Stassen was reported as saying that he would rather be a defeated candidate for the top nomination than accept the vice presidential nomination.

The idea of a "deal" in such a case is an amateurish slant on political realities. Deals are made in a convention. They seldom take place in the preliminaries. Smart politicians realize that any such agreement, if it becomes known, is very harmful to all concerned. The idea is repugnant to voters.

And in the present instance, it would involve an insincerity and deception which is wholly out of keeping with the character and record of the two men.

Votes Against Dewey

It can be taken for granted that, in calculating chances, as long as an atmosphere of friendly competition exists between Taft and Stassen, some 300 or more prospective convention votes are well removed from Dewey's reach. A guess of 200 for Taft and 100 for Stassen is ventured even by friends of other candidates.

On the day of the Des Moines meeting, the news appeared that an organized Eisenhower-for-President movement is under way in New York. Names of the backers have already appeared. These backers, when questioned, admit that Eisenhower has given no sanction to their efforts. "I Like Ike" buttons and other means of propaganda are in the making.

Personal contacts by this reporter make it clear that among the young Republicans of New York City there is strong and growing Eisenhower sentiment. But if the general has sufficient political acumen to be regarded as a candidate, he will suppress and disown premature and amateurish efforts to organize his candidacy. He is still in a vital public post which, in the national interest, should be utterly non-political.

Such efforts, moreover, would gravely impair his chance to get the nomination later, if he should consent to be a candidate. Organization Republicans are determined this time to permit no repetition of a drive similar to the Willkie drive of 1940. They resent the efforts of people outside their circle to force a nomination.

If, as time passes, the political leaders feel that Eisenhower has the best chance of election and if they feel, also, that Eisenhower will work with the party, he will have genuine organization support. As Alf Landon has suggested, the Eisenhower candidacy, if it is to be successful, must in final stages be managed by politically experienced hands.

Over-anxious admirers of Eisenhower may be defeating their own purposes.

Letters for Special Delivery

MR. GEORGE WEISS,
Newly Appointed Manager of the New York Yankees.

Dear sir:

Well, I am tossing my bat into the air for you. I knew you when. I know your baseball career from A to Izzard or from Ruppert to MacPhail, and I have never known a moment in it when you weren't a good sportsman and a fellow who played under the accepted rules and never insisted on making up his own.

Baseball, contrary to what many sports columnists seem to hold, is not primarily a matter of broken attendance records, quick dough, carnival tactics and ballyhoo. Not unless we are ready to forget all about it as our number one national sport and the game from which the kids in the sandlots get an inspiration and a code.

* * *

If the talk about baseball being "the game for the kids of America" is baloney, then the beauty pageants, the burlesque queens, the night club motif, the public brawls, the disorderly conduct and the glorification of bizarre showmanship and box office stampedes belong and must be sustained. In which case you don't fit in as a guiding figure.

* * *

But if traditions of sportsmanship, decent codes of conduct, restraint, good manners and a little self control when in the full floodlight for pictures projected into every home and school in America are to be kept ahead of sideshow antics, cheap exhibitionism, contempt for all the accepted rules and a love of self exploitation then you are the answer to a baseball public's prayer.

* * *

I remember you when you drove a meat wagon for your old man when he ran a butcher's market away out Shelton Avenue, back home. I remember how you started as a kid, picked up a forlorn Connecticut ball franchise and resurrected the sport there. I recall how your success attracted big league attention and how you landed with the Yanks in Newark. I knew how the farm system in your hands developed the greatest array of Yankee baseball stars in history.

* * *

I know the wildest stretches of imagination could not picture you as giving an interview and repudiating it the next day, denouncing a game ball player as being "no help to the team," fighting with a woman telephone manager, or crowding triumphant players out of the spotlight by a personal circus performance.

* * *

To my way of thinking you see a big gate and a fair profit as good goals, but above it all you see the kids from the sandlots reading the baseball news and getting their ideas of sportsmanship and clean fun shaped by it.

* * *

I think you are going to be the best thing that has happened to baseball in years, and I wish you luck, as I sit here still trying to figure out the minds of baseball writers who glorify the other type as doing "more good than harm to baseball." The 1948 outlook is refreshing.

Yours sincerely,
ELMER.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: This is my favorite time of the year. When else can I listen to football games on the radio and drink sweet cider? There's no time like fall for getting a good night's sleep, for taking a stroll through the fields, for sitting on the back steps in the noon day sun and having a long, one-sided conversation with the dog.

As I like to tell your Aunt Effie, this time of year is like the interval when a good-looking woman has reached the height of her good looks and is just beginning to show the first attractive signs of growing old. Maybe it's foolish to call them attractive, but they are, I mean lines in the face that show character, the first touch of gray in the hair, the serene expression of the eyes when a mature woman is happy. In short, the same identical things that women call attractive in the men that get paid to pose for those distinguished boozer ads.

I talked today to a fellow who just got home from a trip up into New England and he says there's snow on the mountains up there. Winter's here, but we don't know it yet. It will dawn on us in harsh reality some morning when the sun's out of sight and we have the first ghastly symptoms of the sniffles. Winter is many different things to different people, but mostly it's gloomy, cold days and wondering when we'll catch cold and, if so, will it turn into pneumonia.

It may interest you to know that we are ready for the ordeal here. You aunt canned bushels of peaches this year. We have preserves and jellies stacked to the roof of the jelly cupboard. I have the winter's supply of potatoes in the bin, we have stuffed the locker with the steer I bought last spring and paid to have fattened with the Simmons herd this summer, and today I bought five bushels of Winesaps for the winter eating. We are going to go along with food-saving, however. We have promised ourselves that at least once a week when we think of beefsteak we'll eat something else—probably griddle cakes saturated with butter and maple syrup.

The coal for the winter firing is in the cellar and the wood is stacked on the side porch. We have the cribbage board ready and two new decks of cards. The storm windows are ready to put up as soon as it threatens to turn cold enough to kill the flies. The winter clothes have been taken out of the mothballs, I've laid in a supply of popcorn, we have half a dozen books laid by that we've been wanting to read and everything is snug. It won't be long now, but if I had the power I'd stop Time on a perfect day in October and not let it start again until next May. Something I could do without very nicely in the way of seasons is Winter. Give our regards and love to all the family and tell the kids I'll not be forgetting to think about Christmas from time to time.

Finds War Loot in Czechoslovakia

By The Associated Press

WARSAW—The Polish government, having recovered a major share of industrial machinery and equipment which was carted off by the Nazis during the war, now is concentrating on getting back other former properties found in Czechoslovakia and Austria.

Equipment recently returned from Czechoslovakia included much electro-technical material. Long-distance telecommunication equipment valued at 1,500,000 Czech crowns, and considerable factory machinery were retrieved by the Revindication and War Reparations bureaus.

In Austria, in the American Army occupation zone, the Poles found 111 carloads of equipment for the Moscice nitrous compounds production plant.

Love's Perilous Path

By Adele Garrison

"NO," Katharine said a bit curtly, "I'm not expecting anything from Mary but what I told you, a complete snapping back into form tomorrow morning. But I'm not taking any chances. Madge is the only one who can manage Mary. If by any chance, my patient should be over-fatigued or downcast tomorrow, or Noel should depart a bit from his Boy Scout role and fail to produce his one good deed a day, I distinctly want Madge around, not cavorting at some dine-and-dance spot."

"My goodwoman," Dicky said loftily, "I want you to understand that my wife does not cavort. But"—he dropped his bantering tone, and spoke earnestly—"of course we'll tailor our program to yours, any time, anyhow. You know that, Katrina."

"Indeed, I do," she said cordially. "And now I wish you two would give me the lowdown on something."

"The state of the nation or the U.N.?" Dicky queried. "I have a sonorous broadcast ready on either topic."

"I'll bet you have," Katharine said, "and on every other known topic on the calendar. Yours is not the kind of light that hides under a bushel basket."

"You've got your quotations mixed," Dicky taunted, "but go on. Spill what's on your supposed mind."

Sudden Conversion

"I want know what you think about Noel's sudden conversion," Katharine said.

"Whether he's really convicted of sin, and kneeling at the mourners' bench?" Dicky countered. "Or whether he's due to backslide once he's taken time out to count not his mercies but his misfgivings?"

"Exactly," Katharine said. "I'm sorry to be a doubting Thomasina but—"

"But you have your doots," Dicky said. "We'll I can't blame you for thinking the lad may have misgivings about his decision to radiate sweetness and light all around the marital horizon. But if you'll observe my spouse's countenance, you will realize that she is ready to leap into the fray and split a lance in the lad's defense."

"Borrowing from Mary's vocabulary," I said, with a plainful effort to smile, "I would say that you are a couple of meanies."

Then I dropped my bantering tone and become fiercely defensive of Noel against what I mentally termed their unreasoning mistrust of Mary's husband, although my conscience told me that my own criticism of him had been as relentless as their own only a few hours before.

"You didn't see Noel as I did right after his interview with Dr. Twitchell," I said. "He was pitiful in his fear that he had done Mary an irreparable injury by the theories he had advanced. But you both saw his happiness when he went out of here after his dinner and his talk with her."

"Yes, he was playing on a jeweled harp, all right," Dicky agreed.

"And I, for one, am sure that he has had his lesson. You—neither of you—can deny that Noel's love for Mary is the strongest emotion of his life."

Coddling His Ego

"When he isn't coddling that damned ego of his," Mary's uncle said relentlessly.

"I'm ashamed of you," I told him bluntly. "You're not being fair at all. I'm ready to stake a good deal on Noel's future reasonableness."

"Don't you know when you're licked, Dicky-bird?" Katharine asked. "I do. And speaking seriously, Madge knows the lad better than anyone else does, and—I know Dr. Twitchell. Noel will probably have welts on him for weeks, and by that time he'll be so accustomed to trotting docilely in harness that there'll be no further trouble from him."

"Leave us hope!" my husband said pessimistically, and then he turned to me aggressively.

"Look here!" he demanded. "Are you going to leave our child up at the Philip Veritzen luxury suite all night?"

"I was just going to suggest that I telephone Olina to bring her down."

"Bring her down, nothing!" Dicky declared emphatically. "I'll do the escorting of my daughter. Telephone the Veritzens, if you please, that Mr. Richard Graham will do himself the honor of calling for his daughter immediately. I'll walk slowly, so as not to get there before you get through telephoning."

He went out of the room, while I went to the telephone and Katharine grinned sympathetically at me.

"Phil," I said, as the great impressario himself answered the telephone, "Dicky is on his way up to get Faith. I think if Olga and Olina can manage to keep her busy in another room for a few minutes, Dicky can bring you up to date on the developments here."

Anxious to Hear

"I'll arrange that," he said. "I am very anxious to hear what has happened. I think Dicky is at the door now."

"Then good-bye," I said, and hung up the receiver just as the knocker sounded.

When I went to it, I gave a joyous exclamation.

"Lillian!" I cried. "How perfectly marvelous to see you!"

"Less skirling on the bagpipes," Lillian Underwood, my best friend and comrade of many years answered. "This is strictly a hush-hush call."

When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

COUNCIL ACTS IN PAY SUITS

Frank Wiedemann Employed To Represent City as Special Counsel.

City Council Monday night voted to retain attorney Frank Wiedemann as special counsel to assist the city solicitor in a $60,000 law suit filed by members of the police and fire departments against the city of Marion.

Council suspended rules to give the ordinance authorizing Wiedemann's appointment three readings as an emergency measure. The ordinance was passed unanimously.

Attorney Wiedemann will assist City Solicitor Edwin B. Spohn and Assistant Solicitor John Watters in defending the city against the claim for back pay filed by Clyde Hardin in August 1945 and by R. M. Miller in October 1946. Hardin is a city patrolman and Miller a member of the fire department.

They are suing for themselves and other members of the two city departments, seeking that portion of their annual salary they claim the city deducted each year from 1930 to 1941 when it was unable to meet the city payroll, according to their petitions in common pleas court. Miller and Hardin are represented in their suits by Attorneys Carter Patton and W. P. Maloney.

Suit 2 Years Old

Litigation has been underway for nearly two years and the case at the present time is under advisement of Morrow county Common Pleas Judge Leland Rutherford. In view of the fact that he is concluding his term as city solicitor, Mr. Spohn pointed out that it would be advisable to have special counsel to insure continuity in the case on the part of the city. The case, he pointed out may not be decided during the balance of his term this year. Mr. Wiedemann is to receive $1,000 for his services as special counsel.

Council also authorized issuance of notes on two sewer construction projects, one of which is nearing completion and the other under construction.

Projects Listed

Project nearing completion is the Patten street project running from Patterson street to North Greenwood. The other is the project on Patterson from East Mark to East Fairgrounds. Notes issued are for $10,119 and for $4,707 and are authorized in anticipation of a special assessment levy.

Council also passed emergency legislation permitting reimbursement of the police and fire chiefs for expenses incurred while attending conventions. These departments heads will be allowed up to $40.

Other measures approved by council was authorization granted city solicitor to settle the claim of the City hospital against Wallace Keirns for $200; granting permission to Noah C. Williams to construct an eight-inch sanitary and 10-inch storm water sewer on Latourette street tapping into the city system at Brown street.

Public hearings on the following petitions to change residential zone to commercial zone were set for Oct. 24; Miller S. Key of 436 North Main street erection of service shop; Joseph Miller, opening of plumbing shop at South Prospect and Howe streets. The petition of John L. Davis to open a heating and ventilating establisment at 459 Windsor was referred to the planning commission.

Bechtle, all of Marion, scout executives.

All activities of the Harding Area are directed from the council headquarters at 218 East Church street in Marion.

The council's operating budget is secured through Community Fund drives and public subscriptions. In Marion and Crawford counties, the Scouts participate in the Community Funds and in Morrow and Wyandot counties supporting funds are raised by popular subscription.

American Diary

By Hal Boyle

ST. PAUL (AP)—Memo to myself: Don't ever get drunk and woolly northwoods country, where bars and gambling joints once made life perilous, and nowadays a man can't get a drink except in a slot machine.

Reading about the crackdown on slots in half a dozen midwestern and north central states is the favorite conversational topic out here and a subject that keeps many of the organization-minded no doubt on the run from the police. Slot machine games, they say, are rapidly driving out of the state that last remaining American sucker trap—the one-armed bandit.

"How can I pay the rent if we don't get the slot machines back?" one tavern keeper asked me tearfully.

It is a real problem. In many small town country clubs fraternal organizations and war veterans clubs the revenue from operating "one-armed bandits" is the basic source of revenue. They are tremendously popular with both men and women.

Drop $5 and Like It.

"Our members would kick like a steer against paying a dollar a week in dues," said one lodge official, "but they don't mind dropping $5 every Saturday night on the slot machines."

Some clubs feel they will be forced to close up entirely. One small country club, melancholy over the loss of club income resulting from Gov. Luther Youngdahl's anti-gambling campaign, posted this eloquent sign on the wall where its row of "nickel grabbers" formerly stood:

"Youngdahl was here."

An ever green remembrance to Mrs. Reid Edwards, wife of an Albert Lea, Minn., manufacturer, is her service overseas as a Red Cross nurse in the first World War.

She has raised children of her own in the decades since then, but her mind often goes back to a long-dead boy she once nursed in France. He has come through the years to seem to her almost like a lost son.

"Why do I remember his name after 30 years?" she mused.

"I suppose it is because he was the first patient I ever had.

"His name was John Seymour, and I believe he lived in Indiana. But in those days we weren't allowed officially to write to their parents, and I was one of those nurses who obeyed all laws.

"We arrived in the dusk of a fall evening in central France. We went up to the base hospital and discovered there nothing but some buildings in process of construction. A few patients were already there with nobody to care for them.

Had Hole In Chest.

"The next morning I went on duty after washing my face in a tomato can.

"The first boy I was assigned to was John Seymour. He had a great hole in his chest. I could see his heart beat. I knew he couldn't possibly live. I gave him his breakfast of oatmeal in a rough white bowl. It was the only bowl we had. Afterward we washed out the bowl and gave him a bath from it.

"I went over and got him a toothbrush from my own trunk, and he said 'God, isn't it good to be human again?'

"He died a couple of days after that. I wasn't there when he died. I was always glad of that. He was such a nice young man—fair-haired and blue-eyed. I always have wished I could talk to his parents."

And then said Mrs. Edwards gently:

"I suppose there aren't so many now who remember that war. But it is the war I remember."

GALION, Oct. 14—A fine of $100 and costs and 30-day jail sentence was given Fred James, about 60, of Tiro in Mayor William Amann's court, Saturday on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. CONSTRUCTION AT NEW HIGH

BUCYRUS, Oct. 14—Believed to be a county record, new construction in the county now totals around $2,000,000, it has been estimated by County Auditor Frederick Klein. After making repair to the wing the plane took off from the small area Sunday afternoon and Lagen continued his cross country flight, a part of his requirement for a commercial pilot's license.

CALVARY CHURCH OPENS EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Revival meetings at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church opened last night with Rev. Lewis H. Naumann of Canton as the evangelist. Elmer Harruff is song leader and Mrs. J. W. Baker is pianist. At last night's service, George Bensley, superintendent of the adult department of the Sunday school, read Scripture and Charles Chappell, assistant class leader, offered prayer. The services will continue each night except Saturday. Tonight will be officers' night, with roll call of all church officers and officers of various organizations taken. Music will be by a volunteer choir, with all those wishing to sing meeting in the choir room at 7 p m for prayer, it was announced. The service will be at 7:30.

As a part of his message Rev. Naumann declared, "The first thing we need to do to have a revival is to have a burden of prayer for souls who need God. Vital Christianity is never very far away from the cross. We must begin at the Cross of Christ. Without death there is no life in the spiritual sense of the word. You will find a lifting power in the cross. We see in Christ on the cross a picture of God's love for mankind. If you want to know what God says about sin, look at the cross. God hated sin so much that He gave His Son. When Jesus died on the cross our freedom was born."

DO WE HAVE TO DIE?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle was desperately ill in mind and body. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says, can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the World's leading geographical societies, for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation, to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address The Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 648-C, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.—Adv.

Teams To Play Away Friday--Harding at Findlay, Irish at Columbus

Prexies Rated To Win Fifth Straight By At Least Three-Touchdown Margin

Harding High's football powerhouse goes to Findlay Friday and comparative scores rate the Presidents to bring back their fifth straight win with a three touchdown margin.

Findlay's season record is as dark as Harding's is bright. The Findlay Trojans have lost four straight, while the Presidents haven't seen defeat or even an enemy score since their opener with Fostoria.

Findlay won their opener from Dayton Stivers, 7-0, but fell four times running after that. Lima South took them, 15-7, Bowling Green knocked them down, 28-7, Fremont Ross rubbed it in 47-2, and Lima Central outscored them, 39-20, last week.

On the basis of games played this season with a common opponent, Lima South, Harding rates three touchdowns better than Findlay. The Presidents shutout Lima, 14-0, last Friday, while Findlay fell to the Lima Tigers, 15-7, on Sept. 19.

Last year Findlay won two and lost seven. Nine lettermen returned to the Trojan squad this year including three men who received mention on the All-Buckeye league team—guard Art Giles, end Joe Fassett, and quarterback Howard Yawbery Jr., son of Findlay Coach Howard H. Yawberg.

The Presidents have a good start on a complete about face from the one tie-eight loss season record last year, and stand a chance of making the turnabout complete if they can get by Sandusky and the powerful Fremont Ross squad in their last two games.

The Prexy onslaught has rolled up a total of 1,231 yards gained to their opponent's 682, and have scored 90 points to their opponent's 12. Columbus South, Tiffin Columbian, Uhrichsville, and Lima South have all been shutout by the Presidents, and Fostoria alone has been able to stop the Prexies this season.

"Kenton" Handbills Huff, Puff, but Fail To Help Grid Team

By International News Service

KENTON, Oct. 14—The mystery of the inflammatory handbills was vexing and embarrassing Kenton school authorities today.

Dr. W. L. Collins, superintendent of schools, announced today his determination to find out who started distributing handbills in Wapakoneta last Tuesday boasting of the "prowess" of the Kenton High school gridiron team and boasting of the "drubbing" the Wildcats would administer to Wapukoneta when the two teams clashed last Friday night.

Dr. Collins charged that whoever was responsible was guilty of extremely poor sportsmanship. He said:

"A thing like this can destroy in a moment all that school administrators can do in a year to inculcate the spirit of fair play and good sportsmanship in the students. This is a highly regrettable thing and, if it is of local origin, we intend to get to the bottom of it."

In addition to the assertedly poor sportsmanship, the promised "drubbing" of Wapakoneta failed to materialize. The Wildcats lost, 19-12, for their first defeat of the season, although they still lead the Western Buckeye league.

Some Kenton residents also have a faint but growing suspicion that perhaps they were victimized by a little applied psychology. They suspect that it is not too improbable that a rabid Wapakoneta fan may have used the handbills to steam up his own favorites.

INJURY PLAGUE HITS BIG NINE GRID CAMPS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—The injury plague swept through Big Nine football camps today, leaving at least 25 players, some of them keymen, sidelined.

Northwestern was hardest hit. Coach Bob Voigts entered seven men on the casualty list, swelling it to 11.

Seven players were nursing hurts at Indiana, with tackle John Goldsberry possibly being lost for a month with a torn knee cartilage.

In Illinois' scoreless tie with Army, reserve line backer Al Mastrangeli suffered a nose injury. Otherwise, the Illini came out of the scrap in fair shape. Mastrangeli is valuable on defense, substituting for both center Lou Levanti and fullback Russ Steger.

Two Iowa guards, Ray Carlson and Russ Benda, were slightly injured in the Indiana game, but the rest of the squad is in good condition for its date with Ohio State.

Otherwise, Michigan Coach Fritz Crisler warned his squad that "the honeymoon is over and we must buckle down for our six-game Big Nine schedule ahead." He tabbed his first string players as "off the physical pace" as the result of three easy wins in which reserves helped pile up a total of 173 points.

FESLER POINTS OUT LACK OF MATERIAL

Says Ohio State Will Flounder Until More Boys Enroll.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14—Ohio State University's football empire, tottering more than slightly after a lean 1946 season and two straight defeats this year, will remain in dire straits unless more scholastic talent is steered to the campus, Coach Wesley E. Fesler indicated today.

The new Buckeye mentor, looking back at the 24-20 loss to Purdue and Saturday's 32-0 rout at the hands of Southern California, declared:

"The best boys from Ohio's high schools are not coming to Ohio State. And we've got to start 'em coming back.

"There's a saying that 'success breeds success,' and right now we're not having enough success to attract them."

Fesler, All-America end for Ohio State in 1930 and 1931, confessed: "This is no fun, believe you me. But I knew what I was getting into when I came here, and we're going to fight it through."

Although Fesler would mention no names, it is a matter of record that the two outstanding stars of the high school all-star game at Canton have passed up Ohio State for other Western Conference schools. Neil Schmidt of Bluffton, a six-foot one-inch halfback with amazing speed, is enrolled at Purdue. And Dick Boykin, 198-pound triple-threat Negro halfback from Ironton, who punts with his left foot and passes with his right arm, is headed for Indiana.

Fesler declared that despite the 32-0 loss to the Trojans his team "played a pretty good game and the score should not have been that high." He said the first two touchdowns were "absolute gifts," due to poor tackling, but predicted "our team will get better."

He said he had noted a definite improvement in the line against the big and fast Trojans, and that Brenton Kirk, sophomore tackle from New Philadelphia, a six-foot-two-inch 212-pounder, would see plenty of action in the future because of his showing.

Fesler also moved Jimmy Crane, Columbus senior, into the starting berth at left end, and shifted Charles Renner, Akron junior, to the defensive fullback job.

"We just couldn't handle Southern California's tackles," Fesler said, "and if you can't handle the tackles, no offense can go." (Ohio gained 55 yards on the ground against the Trojans.)

Fesler also said his quarterbacking was not the best, but that "we've decided to stick with our two sophomores (Dick Slager of Columbus and Pandel Savic of Girard) and have them develop."

On the sunny side, Fesler said he hoped to have halfbacks Rod Swinehart, Charley Renner and Bob Brugge ready for Saturday's Iowa game.

Night Football Games Called Crime Breeders

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14 — The president of Cleveland's youth protective council declared at a council meeting last night that night high school games should be stopped as contributors to juvenile delinquency.

The contests are "an invitation to the children to stay out nights," said Capt. J. C. Van Buren, and "too many are visiting beer parlors and other undesirable places after the game."

As many as 20 extra policemen are assigned to each high school game and "these men are needed for other duty," declared Capt. Arthur Roth, head of the police department's juvenile bureau.

REDS RELEASE LUKON

Upsets Tumble Grid Standings

Canton McKinley, Mansfield Skid Down Ohio High School Team Standings After Weekend Losses.

By FRITZ HOWELL

Ohio Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 14—Ohio's high school grid fans looked back today on one of the most startling weekends in scholastic football history.

The year's biggest upsets came as Canton McKinley, rated the No. 1 team in the state, dropped a 7-6 verdict to Canton Lincoln, and Mansfield's youthful Tygers, rated in the fourth spot, were massacred by Springfield's Wildcats who hadn't won a game in four previous outings.

But, along with the two "big shot" losers, at least eight other teams suffered their first defeats, about 25 stretched their season's record to five wins, 100-yard runs were chalked up, a coach whose team had won five straight decided to quit, a youngster played a full quarter with a broken leg, and a team which couldn't win a game a year ago blanked its fourth opponent in a row.

McKinley's loss to Lincoln was the first ever suffered by the Bulldogs at the hands of a Canton foe, and ended a dynasty reaching back into the late thirties. It batted the Bulldogs right off the top rung of the "top 10" picked weekly by the state's sports writers, but the scribes still think the McKinley squad is good enough for sixth place.

As the Bulldogs fell, Cleveland Cathedral Latin moved into the lead, with Toledo Waite, claimant of the state title the last two years, taking over the second spot and Hamilton's Big Blue dropping to third.

Waite topped Toledo DeVilbiss, 15-5, while Hamilton defeated Cincinnati Hughes, 25-7, with halfback Jim Bailey scoring all four touchdowns on jaunts of 83, 53, 73 and 53 yards.

Here's how the top 10 stack up this week:

School	Record	Ballots
Cleve. Cath. Latin	4-0	113
Toledo Waite	4-0	100
Hamilton	5-0	96
Massillon	4-0	79
Middletown	5-0	62
Canton McKinley	3-1	44
Columbus West	5-0	31
Barberton	5-0	30
Canton Lincoln	3-1	26
Fremont	5-0	25

Springfield's good-natured coach, Jim McDonald, was the only one who didn't figure the Wildcat win over Mansfield as an upset. After losing to Columbus West, Portsmouth and Lima Central, and tying Columbus North, the Wildcats were decided underdogs, but McDonald said:

"The breaks came our way at last, and our boys played the brand of football they've been capable of all season. We just made up our minds that we would not be beat again, and that's the whole story."

Spencerville, Loudonville, Columbus North, Grove City, West Carrollton, Kenton, Oberlin and Lancaster suffered first defeats, but Troy moved on to its 15th straight win, and Toledo Waite to its 11th in a row, while Cathedral Latin's 34-6 victory over Collinwood was its 38th without a loss.

Boasting five straight conquests at the season's halfway mark were Hamilton, Middletown, Fremont Ross, East Cleveland Shaw, Millersburg, Lisbon, Salem, Tiltonsville, Upper Sandusky, Bremen, Crooksville, Gallipolis, Akron West, Barberton, Bexley, Columbus West, Troy, Piqua, Elyria, Amherst, Genoa, Grandview and Austintown Fitch.

Coach Ralph Weaver of the Austintown team, which walloped Canfield, 47-12, for its fifth in a row, announced he was quitting as both coach and teacher Nov. 15, a week after the season ends. He gave no reason.

This and that: Steve Farkas of Youngstown Woodrow Wilson made a 100-yard kickoff return against Struthers, but his team lost its fourth straight, 27-18. . . . 24,000 fans saw Lincoln upset Canton McKinley, and wouldn't some of the state's colleges like a crowd like that? . . . The lead changed hands five times before Portsmouth defeated Chillicothe, 25-21, in the last minute. . . . Marion Harding, minus a win last year, beat Lima South, 14-0, for the Presidents' fourth straight shutout of the year after dropping the opener. . . . Guard Joe Manaci of Marion St. Mary lost two teeth and chipped two others as Marysville fell, 19-14. . . . Hamilton's Harry Phillips, the state's top scorer with 89 points in four tilts, got into only two plays against Cincinnati Hughes but expects to roll aganst Springfield Friday. . . . Bremen and Crooksville, each with five wins, meet Thursday. . . . Canton Lincoln used an 8-man line against McKinley, and recovered five Bulldog fumbles. . . . Tackle Bill Kuhn kicked a 20-yard field goal to defeat Shadyside, 3-0, giving Tiltonsville its fifth straight and keeping the club unbeaten, untied and unscored on. . . . Jim Franklin at Akron St. Mary did not play against Greenville, Pa., Sunday, for he found out last week he had suffered a broken leg in the 20-20 tie with Kent State. He played a full quarter with the broken limb, and discovered two days later the seriousness of the injury. . . . Charley Chrysler of Gahanna Lincoln scored all 27 points as Grove City lost its first game, 27-13, Boosting him to 81 for five games. . . . Capt. Tom Boyle of Bucyrus was a one-man gang, too, scoring all three touchdowns as Galion was defeated 20-0. . . . Lancaster paid dearly for a student prank, seven youngsters painting huge "Yea, Lancaster" and "Beat Noo-ark" signs in Newark's field Thursday night. Newark had lost three and tied one, while Lancaster had won three and tied one, but the Wildcats—dubbed "Pussycats" by the sign-painters—won the game, 13-0. In four previous games Newark had scored only 20 points while allowing 106.

EDISON AND CENTRAL BATTLE TO 6-6 TIE

Central Reserves Win, 7-0, in Preliminary Game.

Edison Junior High school battled Central to a 6-6 tie in a heavy fog at Harding stadium last night.

Central opened the scoring in the third quarter after Russell intercepted an Edison sleeper pass and went to the Edison 20. Knisely made the rest of the distance on a reverse to put Central ahead. An attempted kick for the extra point was blocked by one of Central's own linemen.

Edison tied up the score when a Central punt was blocked deep in Central territory and left guard Geer ran 10 yards for the touchdown. A drop kick for the conversion failed and left Central and Edison tied.

Central Reserves won the preliminary game, 7-0, in the opening minutes when Kasotis went over on a quarterback sneak. A plunge for the extra point was good.

Edison goes to Upper Sandusky on Oct. 21 for their next game.

Central travels to Bucyrus Thursday night to make up a game postponed earlier in the season because of the Bucyrus Corn Festival, and they entertain Galion next Monday afternoon.

Marion St. Mary and Columbus St. Mary Scheduled For Red Bird Stadium Battle

Marion St. Mary's winning Irish gridders travel to Columbus Friday for a non-league football clash in Red Bird stadium with Columbus St. Mary.

The Irish came out of the Marysville battle last Friday victorious, 19-14, but considerably roughened up. They'll take it easy in practice this week in order to recuperate, said Coach Gene Fetter.

Gloom in the Irish camp met the announcement Saturday that the shoulder injury sustained by halfback Bob Stuber in the game would put Bob out of the football picture for the rest of the season.

Joe Maniaci had two teeth knocked out and two more chipped in the Marysville fracas, but he'll be ready to go against Columbus St. Mary.

Dick Schuler's trick knee, first injured in the Irish opener with Delaware Willis, began acting up again at Marysville. He'll have to nurse it along this week, said Fetter.

St. Mary Is Tough.

Irish scouts who watched Columbus St. Mary beat Holy Family, 19-0, a week ago report that the Columbus outfit looks tough again this year. Columbus St. Mary tied Columbus Linden, 0-0, Sept. 19, and beat Portsmouth East, 7-0, in their opener.

The Irish will be fighting for their fifth win. Delaware Willis, Carey, Tiffin Calvert and Marysville, have all come out of Irish battles on the short side. Lima St Rose stopped them, 19-0.

Next Mid-State league game on the Irish schedule is Richwood, who will play here on Oct. 24.

New York Stock Quotations

1 O'CLOCK QUOTATIONS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Industrial stocks generally edged forward in today's market under leadership of steels and aircrafts but rails continued apathetic.

Dealings, active at the start on the accumulation of orders over the Monday holiday, soon slowed. Advances of fractions to a point or more prevailed near midday.

Youngstown Sheet, Lukens Steel and Mission Corp. touched 1947 peaks. Favored most of the time were U. S. Steel, Texas Co., Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Du Pont and American Smelting.

Occasional laggards were Chrysler (reflecting production shutdowns due to steel shortages), Goodyear, International Harvester, Kennecott and Westinghouse.

STORM

in the tropics was in the hands of scientists today for evaluation of the first attack on destructive winds with dry ice.

The information and numerous pictures were obtained by scientists who were carried over the top of an Atlantic ocean storm 500 miles off the Florida coast yesterday.

The value of the experiment will not be determined until lengthy study has been made of the data and pictures collected on the trip.

Some early sailing ships carrying immigrants to the United States booked twice as many steerage passengers as the American law allowed, the captains counting on the certainty that many passengers would die on the arduous Atlantic trip.

MADAME IS AWAITING YOU IN THE MUSIC ROOM, SIR.
OH, DEREK! WHAT DID THEY SAY? AM I GOING TO GET MY BABY?
IT'S BAD NEWS AGAIN, ELLEN. THE LAWYERS SAY ADOPTION IS QUITE IMPOSSIBLE!
BUT, WHY? WHY? WITH ALL YOUR MONEY AND POWER! WHY CAN'T I HAVE THE ONE THING NATURE HAS DENIED US?
YOU KNOW THE REASON!
BUT THAT WAS THIRTY YEARS AGO! THEY CAN'T HOLD A BOY'S CRIME AGAINST A MAN OF FIFTY!
THEY DO, ELLEN!

IF I EVER SEE JOE AGAIN—I'LL FIND OUT!
PARDON, FRIEND. HIYA, GORGEOUS? I BRUNG YOU THESE ROSES BECAUSE THEY REMIND ME OF YOU.
JOE DEEMS!

THERE SHE IS, WILMER! GET IN AND DRIVE HER.
DON'T CARE IF I DO, CHIGGER.

THANK YOU, KNOBBY'S IN A VERY BAD SPOT. THEY TOOK HIM TO THE SEVENTEENTH PRECINCT...JIMMY DERL OF THE HOMICIDE SQUAD CAME FOR HIM.

HE'S JUST SICK ABOUT IT. I AM, TOO. KNOBBY MAY HAVE A TEMPER ... BUT... BUT I KNOW HE'S TELLING THE TRUTH... HIS FACE WAS ALL SCRATCHED...
POOR KNOBBY. HE'LL PROBABLY GET OFF CLEAR IN THE HEARING ... BUT HE'LL NEVER GET OVER THE DEATH OF THAT FELLOW. I KNOW KNOBBY.
